

To the Students and Faculty of Washington and Lee:

The members of the Student Association for Black Unity would like to invite you, the students and faculty, to participate in our Black Awareness Week, January 12-18, 1975. We as Black students feel that as a part of our education, a part of any education should encompass an understanding of the people and events surrounding them. Our organization's main objective is to try to emphasize how the Black man feels, how he views today's society and the changes that it goes through; changes that affect all men, both black and white.

In accordance to our objective, the theme chosen for this year's Black Awareness Week is "Projections of Blackness." The week is outlined as follows:

Sunday—Dr. David Shannon, Academic Dean, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. Speaking on the Black Religious Experience. 8:00—Lee Chapel

Monday—Samuel Proctor, Dean of Graduate Education, Rutgers University. Speaking on the Black man and His Education. 8:00—Lee Chapel

Tuesday—Virginia Union University Concert Choir. 7:00—Lee Chapel

Wednesday—The Leslie D. Smith Memorial Lecture presented by Dr. Wyatt T. Walker, Pastor of Canaan Baptist Church, of New York. Speaking on the Black Man in American Contemporary Society. 8:00—Lee Chapel

Thursday—Mr. Edward Robinson, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach, Grambling State College. 8:00—Lee Chapel

Saturday—The Black Ball, Evans Dining Hall. Formal. Invitation only. Featuring the "98.6" of Washington, D.C. 8:00

This year's Ball is open to all Washington and Lee students. Invitations may be picked up at the S.A.B.U. office in the University Center before Wednesday, January 15.

The members of the Student Association for Black Unity extend this invitation to you hoping that you will take it upon yourselves to come to the presentations during the week, in order to better understand the presence of the Black in our society, and perhaps more about yourselves.
